Art and technology

Postmodernism

art becomes pluralistic, eclectic, experimental, and indebted to high technology ironic distorsion of form and content blurring the line between low and high culture

Pop Art
(UK and USA, 1950s and 1960s)

taking art out of academies and making it popular

Andy Warhol
(1928–1987)